I forked the github repo so all the code can be found on here: Github. Additionally I documented everything, and also answered the questions in task 3 in the SOLUTION.md.

I invested way too much time in to the c++ version, so please use this version as it is much much faster and displays the program state a lot nicer. Both an executable for the windows64 and apple Arm64 architecture are available in the release folder. If the binaries are not compatible it is very easy to compile and build yourself, the needed commands are in the SOLUTION.md.
